4. BENOIT-LÉVY, Georges. La Ville et Son Image

Paris Éditions de Cités-Jardins de France 1910 ix + 70pp, illustrated with 30 b/w photographs and one fold out in colour at the end of the layout of Bournville which is tipped in. Full red morocco, gilt title, worn at edges. Silk end papers. The author went to England to study industrial villages: Port Sunlight and Bournville as well as Britain's first garden city, Letchworth. On his return to France, he founded the Association des Cités-Jardins de France. He contributed to works on the garden city and Port Sunlight in particular from 1904 onwards. Later he became interested in the linear city. This study is wide ranging and considers what elements make a city beautiful - examples from the USA, Continental Europe and Great Britain. Text in French. Shelf label pasted to lower board. [19080] £80

5. BENOIT-LÉVY, Georges. Cités-Jardins 1932

Nice Georges Benoit-Lévy 1932 130pp

illustrated with b/w line ills. Pictorial wrappers. Very good copy protected in glassine. Very good copy. Describes and discusses the British Garden Cities and their precursors. Includes material on Welwyn

Garden City, Port Sunlight, Bournville, Moor Park and many other locations and considers the influence of Garden City principles on suburban design. Lovely production. Text in French. Benoit-Lévy (1880-1971) was a French architect and urban planner and theorist, founder and director of Association des Cité-Jardins de France. He was a prolific author on urban planning in France, England, America and Australia. [19130] £85

9. [BOURNVILLE] A Factory in a Garden: Photographs of the Cocoa and Chocolate Works of Cadbury Brothers Ltd., and the Surrounding Estate

Bournville, Worcestershire Published by Cadbury Brothers nd c1900 36pp illustrated with photo litho plates in b/w. Long small 8vo. Gilt decorated wrappers with title on upper wrapper. Very sl. rusted at staples else very good. The Bournville Cadbury Factory opened in 1879. Very early example of a publication documenting the facilities of the newly established Bournville village. The photographs illustrate the facilities, strictly segregated for men and women working for Cadbury. The last few images show their Cocoa Plantations in Trinidad and finally there is a four page description of the social and welfare projects of Bournville. Later editions of this booklet are more common than this very early example of the ideals of the Cadbury family's philanthropy. [19040] £80

10. [BOURNVILLE] HARVEY, W. Alexander. The Model Village and its Cottages: Bournville

London, B T Batsford 1906 xi + 68pp + 57 plates of plans, views and details with 6 further plans. Cloth a bit rubbed on spine and edges, but internally very good. Based on a paper related to Cottage Homes, read at the Architectural Association in 1904. Harvey was one of the main designers of the cottages at Bournville. In his foreword he suggests that the book did not do justice to the range of buildings at Bournville, but today it is considered one of the best period surveys of the village. It is particularly useful for its illustrations, including plans showing the layout of the cottages and the village itself. [Ref: 17889] £110

11. CORNES, James. Modern Housing in Town and Country. Illustrated by examples of municipal and other schemes of block dwellings, tenement houses, model cottages and ... descriptions of the cheap cottage exhibition

With half -title, four photogravure plates, 8vo Red half morocco contemporary binding with red cloth boards. Some wear to extremities and outer hinges. Marbled end papers. This is a history of New Lanark on the River Clyde, southeast of Glasgow, fo is a key project for the development of model settlements. The second part of the book provides the history of the Orbiston Community, a fleeting venture and social experiment founded, like New Lanark, on the principles of reformer Robert Owen. The Community consisted of a single stone building designed to accommodate 1000 residents. The project failed after a single year, in 1827. [Ref: 19192] £85

14. CUPLIN. Ewart, T., Garden City Movement up-to-date

London Garden Cities and Town Planning Association 1914 vi +82pp + [4]pp period ads. Illustrated with maps, plans and photographs and loosely inserted table. Small quarto. Original wrappers bound into more recent black rexine hard covers with gilt lettering. Very good indeed. Important analysis of early schemes which defines what the Association considered at the time to be garden cities and suburbs as distinct from suburban housing schemes. It nonetheless shows just how much the conception of the garden city had been broadened from Howard's original texts. Indeed the Association's own name had been broadened to add the newly emergent practice and theory of town planning to the original focus. Alongside the garden city, recognition is now given to the burgeoning numbers of garden suburbs and garden villages. Many examples of these are identified and briefly described. [15877] £180

15. (Deutsche Gartennstadt-Gesellschaft, [German Garden City

Society]] Aus englischen Gartenstädten. Beobachtungen und Ergebnisse einer sozialen Studienreise. Berlin Berlin, Deutsche Gartenstadt-Gesellschaft and Renaissance Publishing, Robert Fernern 1910 188pp illustrated with b/w plates. 4to. Their tour took in New Earswick (the Joseph Rowntree garden village on the outskirts of York, Port Sunlight, Bournville, Letchworth Garden City and Hampstead Garden Suburb. It included visits to study public housing schemes in Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, and London. Efforts were made to make the German delegation welcome. The little touches included a floral reception gate at New Earswick with a German inscription "A Warm welcome our German cousins" and a lunch at Port Sunlight. The publication includes a list of members and guests in the auditorium at Port Sunlight who attended the lunch. This was a large delegation of visitors including a number of well-known architects of the day active in Germany. (Includes Ludwig Mies - aka Mies van der Rohe) as a young man. [17970] £420

16. [EALING TENANTS] The Pioneer Co-Partnership Suburb A record of Progress issued as a souvenir of the visit T R H The Duke and Duchess of Connaught to declare open the Brentham Club and Institute of the Ealing Tenants Limited and published by Co-Partnership Publishers Limited 1912 Letchworth Garden City Press 1912 Original publication, 33pp + illustrated section comprising b/w plates + [c8]pp period ads. Decorated wrappers. Verso has location plan on it. Includes colour and folded map of Brentham Garden Suburb. This garden suburb, near Pitsanger in Ealing, was the first garden suburb in London to be built in co-operative principles, predating the larger and better-known Hampstead Garden Suburb by some years. It was mostly built between 1901 and 1915. [19052] £85

18. (GARDEN CITIES) The Book of the Cheap Cottages Exhibition: containing a complete catalogue with plans, and articles on the origin of the exhibition and Garden City, and cottage building problems. London, published for the Committee by "The County Gentleman and Land and Water", 1905 176 p., [1] leaf of plates : ill., plans (1 fold.) Quarto. Green gilt lettered cloth. Cloth a little rubbed but still a very good copy of this scarce exhibition catalogue. The 1905 Cheap Cottages Exhibition helped to shape and establish Letchworth Garden City soon after its launch. The event responded to the shortage of cottages in rural areas, caused by restrictive by-laws that allowed only expensive materials. Mr J. St. Loe Strachey [Editor of the Spectator] started a campaign to solve this after his article, 'In Search of a £150 Cottage', and the Garden City Company approved the idea of an exhibition and provided it with sites in the centre of Letchworth. Architects were able to produce innovative designs, without the restrictions of by-laws, using new materials to build affordable cottages for rural labourers. [19061] £220

London, J. M. Dent & Sons Ltd 1919 141pp + 4pp on the Pioneer Trust Ltd. Publisher's at the end of the book. 180x120mm, limp linen wraps, with attractive designs by W Raffé on both upper and lower wrappers. Bright copy. The book outlines a proposal for a new Country Town in England in the spirit and purpose of freedom and fellowship and thus goes well beyond a commentary on housing schemes. The New Town Council was formed of some 50 members and their names are printed in the front of the book. Their aim was to find a site for the new town. However they went beyond this and by the time of publication they formed to form the Pioneer Trust Ltd., a corporate body tasked to find a site for the ideal town and raise the capital needed to go forward. The principles the book contains were effectively established at Welwyn. Unable to find a site suitable for the foundation of its ideal settlement, the directors of the Pioneer Trust joined forces in 1921 with Welwyn Garden City

Ltd. The following year the name was changed to New Towns Trust Ltd. This is the first edition of New Town. Hard to find in this condition. [19069] £95
